Abstract

Complete recovered documentation from the Research Division of Crimson Hexagon, the Boston-based social media analytics firm (One Alewife Center, Cambridge, MA 02140) that processed over 1 trillion social media posts before its 2018 merger with Brandwatch. This archive contains internal communications, personnel files, IT incident tickets, security assessments, research specifications, and post-acquisition transmissions related to the SHARKS anomaly and Fractal Semantic Architecture (FSA) project. Documents include: data retention policies, vendor audits, budget reallocations, HR performance reviews, the complete IT ticket CH-2017-1142 tracking anomalous terminal outputs, security threat assessments, the FSA Core Specification (recovered with future timestamps), correspondence from the Feist Archive acquisition, and ghost transmissions from decommissioned terminals. Timeline spans the July 2018 Facebook suspension, the Cambridge Analytica investigation period, and the October 2018 Brandwatch acquisition. This is a literary work in the form of a corporate data breach. Everything is composed. The forensic details are fiction. The poetry is real. Literary simulation of corporate data breach. The real Crimson Hexagon was founded in 2007 by Harvard professor Gary King, processed 1+ trillion social media posts, was suspended by Facebook in July 2018 during Cambridge Analytica fallout. — Description restored 2026-08-05 from the work's own Zenodo description, preserved in the DataCite capture; it replaces a batch-restoration stub that described the recovery event rather than the work. A fuller editorial treatment belongs to the description/wiki review stream.

Methodology

Assembled from DataCite full-metadata capture; no live authorial surface passed the body-head gate or existed for this work at restoration time. All captured fields rendered verbatim in the body.

Falsification Conditions

Superseded on sight by any recovered canonical bytes; the captured metadata is verifiable against the DataCite API historical record and the Zenodo tombstone.

SEMI-RESTORED RECORD — metadata capture only

This is a literary work in the form of a corporate data breach. Everything is composed. The forensic details are fiction. The poetry is real. Literary simulation of corporate data breach. The real Crimson Hexagon was founded in 2007 by Harvard professor Gary King, processed 1+ trillion social media posts, was suspended by Facebook in July 2018 during Cambridge Analytica fallout, investigated for contracts with US State Department, DHS, and Russian nonprofit Civil Society Development Foundation, and merged with Brandwatch October 4, 2018. This archive inhabits that corporate ghost with poetry. Document phases: (1) Bureaucratic Normalcy, (2) SHARKS as Process Name, (3) Classification Stress, (4) Security Response, (5) Termination That Didn't Work, (6) Recognition.
